Critical thinking Web Developer with a willingness to work in small teams or large groups collaboratively to accomplish any task.

I am well-versed in multiple programming languages, and have some experience debugging code and thinking outside the box. I have lived on a computer since I was 11 years old with my first Windows 95 machine!

I consider myself to be a lifelong learner and will never stop refining my craft. My most recent course on Udemy was a React course and I fell even more in love with development using that framework! It is now my primary focus.
